A MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR & BOARD CHAIR

CHILDREN'S ADVOCACY CENTER
of suffolk county

This past year, the Children's Advocacy Center of Suffolk County served more than 1,600 children and their caregivers who have experienced the devastating effects of sexual abuse, physical abuse, commercial sexual exploitation, and child trafficking. Our commitment to providing high-quality, evidence-based treatment remains unwavering. We continue to adapt our programs to meet the evolving needs of the children and families we serve, ensuring they receive the compassionate care and support they deserve.

Through rigorous data analysis and continuous evaluation, we have enhanced our services, adopting innovative clinical therapies tailored to address the unique circumstances of each child and their family. We expanded our training program, reaching more caregivers with accessible and practical strategies for discussing online safety, body safety, and recognizing warning signs of abuse, empowering families and protecting children.

Our focus on core programs has been complemented by growing prevention efforts aimed at reducing stigma, increasing awareness, and improving access to care. We are proud to have fortified our already strong foundation—adding skilled staff and dedicated board members—ensuring we are equipped to meet the pressing needs of our community.

As you review this report, we hope you will see and feel the profound difference your support makes in the lives of children and families across Suffolk County, throughout the Commonwealth, and beyond. Together, we are making a meaningful impact for the most vulnerable members of our community and fostering hope for a safer, brighter future.

Of course, there's still more we can do. And it truly takes a collective effort. Your partnership and unwavering support are essential to our work, and for that, we are deeply grateful.

With appreciation,

Annie

Boston Emergency Medical Services Emergency Medical Technicians-in-training learned about Recognizing & Responding to Concerns of Child Abuse.

The Parents Preventing Child Abuse webinar series included five installments aimed at educating caregivers and hosted a total audience of 287 caregivers, foster parents, and professionals.

425 School Resource Officers from across Massachusetts attended the Municipal Police Training Committee's conference and learned how to understand & respond effectively to children's sexual behaviors.

The CAC delivered "Understanding Children's Sexual Behaviors & Medical Services" for the International Institute of New England's Unaccompanied Children Program team.

Parents of Revere's Beachmont Elementary School students participated in a Bilingual (English/Spanish) Stop Block Talk online safety training.

CELEBRATING THE STRENGTH OF SURVIVORS

The CAC, in collaboration with the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office and the Massachusetts Children's Alliance, hosted the "Celebration of Courage" in the House Members' Lounge of the Massachusetts State House on April 30, 2024.

In recognition of Child Abuse Awareness Month and the 10-year anniversary of Now You See—a collection of images of the eyes of survivors and those affected by sexual and physical abuse and exploitation—this inspiring event featured remarks from the first survivor featured in the project, legislative leaders and advocates, and a musical performance by a survivor of child abuse.

House Representative Kevin Honan opened the program and acknowledged the important role the community plays in the fight against child abuse. "We all play a role in preventing and responding to child abuse – legislators, parents, advocates, law enforcement, all of us," said Chairman Honan.

Suffolk County District Attorney Kevin Hayden and Massachusetts Children's Alliance Executive Director, Tom King, also offered remarks emphasizing appreciation for the resiliency and courage of the survivors present, as well as acknowledging the critical role that the Massachusetts legislature plays in our collective work.

Saraliz Rivera

Saraliz Rivera, the first survivor featured in the Now You See project addressed the group and her fellow survivors. "I want all the survivors here to know, that I've had many difficult days, and it is not fair that we are asked to be strong so much of the time," Rivera said. "But we do it. And it helps me to know that my experiences and what I do with them, have helped to keep others safe from harm. And I will not stop trying to increase awareness about child abuse and sexual assault and why I will always talk about why Children's Advocacy Centers are so important."

Saraliz's remarks were followed by a powerful electric guitar performance of Queen's Bohemian Rhapsody from Sophia, another participant in the Now You See project.

LEADERSHIP IN CHILD ABUSE RESPONSE & PREVENTION

of suffolk county

In June, CAC Executive Director, Annie Marcklinger, SEEN Program Manager, Sheelah Gobar, and Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children (CSEC) Prevention & Intervention Specialist, Sophie Jordan, traveled to Washington, DC for the National Children's Alliance Leadership Conference. While there, Sophie and Sheelah shared their expertise with attendees during their "High-Risk Missing and Exploited Youth: The Multidisciplinary Team Response" presentation.

Through a collaboration with the MA Children's Alliance, the University of Oklahoma's Health Sciences Center, and the National Center on the Sexual Behavior of Youth, Mental Health & Family Advocacy Director, Catalina Perez (front right), is being trained as a Clinical Trainer for Problematic Sexual Behavior-Cognitive Behavior Therapy (PSB-CBT). This is part of MACA's initiative to have trainers across the state to ensure that MA is able to meet the needs of the children and families across the Commonwealth. Catalina presented some of the modules during a learning session for clinicians from other CACs and mental health agencies. As the first CAC in the state to offer PSB-CBT to children ages 3-14, we are thrilled to have a role in the expansion of this critical intervention to clinicians and organizations throughout the Commonwealth.

CAC staff gathered at the State House to celebrate SEEN Program Manager, Sheelah Gobar, being honored as a Victim Advocate of the Year by the Massachusetts Office for Victim Assistance.

We have had the privilege of seeing firsthand how the CAC of Suffolk County, not only meets the highest standards of care, but consistently sets the bar for innovation, excellence, and leadership among CACs statewide and nationally.

— Thomas M. King, LICSW
Executive Director, Massachusetts
Children's Alliance

ADVOCATING FOR CHANGE

At every opportunity, the CAC advocates for legislation to help advance its work supporting children who have experienced abuse and their families. This involves providing testimony at hearings, encouraging Suffolk County's delegates to co-sponsor and vote in favor of bills that support victims statewide through in-person and digital state and federal advocacy days, and so much more.

While in DC for the NCA Leadership Conference, CSEC Prevention & Intervention Specialist, Sophie Jordan, and SEEN Program Manager, Sheelah Gobar, met with staff members from the offices of Representative Stephen Lynch, Congresswoman Ayanna Pressley, and Senator Edward J. Markey to advocate for funding and support to better serve the children and families of our community.

After meeting with Sheelah and Sophie in DC, Congresswoman Ayanna Pressley's Legislative Assistant, Bayley Connors (L) stopped by the CAC to see firsthand where the Congresswoman's constituents were receiving trauma-informed care following abuse.

L-R: Suffolk County District Attorney's Office Director of Youth Safety, Jackie Lamont; Issues Management Group (IMG) Managing Director, Molly Horan; CAC Development Coordinator, Nicole Bresnahan; CAC Executive Director, Annie Marcklinger; CAC Chief of Development & External Affairs, Kim Sebastiao; and IMG Vice President, Kathy Bell delivered Now You See frames to all 25 Suffolk County delegates to keep survivors at the forefront of their thoughts as they set their priorities.

It takes all of us to support the children of Suffolk County who need the CAC, and this year the community showed up in so many ways!

- Jim Stone of the Stone Family Foundation made a generous gift to the CAC and donated 50 Trouble the Dog stuffed animals and Winthrop-based non-profit, Survivors by the Sea, contributed cookie care packages to spread holiday cheer, hope, and healing with the children who come through our doors.
- Caitlyn DiCillo was one of five dedicated Boston Marathon runners for Team Suffolk CAC. Together the team raised an incredible $43,088.
- Aspiring Eagle Scout, Sam Danis, and the members of Boy Scout Troop 355 came together to help Sam complete his Eagle Scout Project, which included a book drive, building some bookcases, upgrading the CAC's room-booking system, and more!
